TOBIANO'S CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF COURSE AND RESORT LIVES UP TO THE SUPERLATIVES

WHEN GOLF COURSE ARCHITECTS TALK ABOUT THEIR NEXT PROJECT, the language is generally filled with clichés: "It's one of the best sites I've ever been given to work with." "We truly feel we have the potential for a world-class golf course." Or that old chestnut, "Mother Nature has provided us a wonderful canvas to work with."

Of course, when the site truly is amazing, as in the case of Thomas McBroom's new Tobiano 18-hole championship golf course in Kamloops, B.C., the superlatives barely >

TOBIANO

Tobiano features two stretches of memorable holes (from left): hole 13, a par 5; the 7th seem adequate. Soaring above the shores of Kamloops Lake, Tobiano is built on one of the most impressive pieces of property made available for golf in Canada in recent memory (all 18 holes have unrestricted lake views).

But in all fairness, when the talented Thomas McBroom – the man who designed The Links at Crowbush Cove (Prince Edward Island), Morgan Creek (South Surrey), and Muskoka's Deerhurst Highlands (Ontario), among others – talks about his golf projects, golfers pay attention. After all, McBroom does inspiring, artistic, visually stunning work with plenty of passion and creativity, regardless of the site. That's just one of the
